

We Must Not Return to the Noose

Roy Cook

Responding Critically

1. Why do you suppose Roy Cook chose to open his article with the quotation from John Robert Radcliffe?
2. Which part of this article do you think presents the most powerful reason for not going back to capital punishment? What makes that part so effective?
3. Make a chart of Roy Cook's main point of argument and the evidence he gives to support those points. Is Cook's argument well supported?
4. Which argument do you think is more convincing—the one presented by Tom Barrett or the one presented by Roy Cook? Why?

Responding Creatively

5. Assume Roy Cook and Tom Barrett work together. Script a multi-page conversation they might have about capital punishment.
